Panton by vitra.
Verner Panton, 1999

Because of technical progress in plastics processing, the Panton Chair has been through a number of production phases since its original launch in the 1960's. The last version of the chair authorized by Verner Panton was produced in collaboration with the designer at the end of the 1990s. This model realized one of Panton's fundamental objectives for the first time: a plastic chair as an inexpensive industrial product.
